

THE GLAMOR SPELL

The purpose of this spell is to make yourself irresistible in a certain situation. It works in many areas: business, school, family, friends, lovers. However, while it influences people in a way for them to want to give you benefit of the doubt and allows them to be charmed by you, it does not alter who they are. This can temporarily get someone's attention, especially in love, but if someone is not attracted to you even if you want them to be, this will not change the core of the individual.

Warning: Trying to control or manipulate someone else's reality to fit yours backfires 100% of the time. Use this to make people pay attention in a positive way. Then it's up to you how you keep that attention and benefit from it.

Materials Needed

A necklace with a gem or semi-precious stone that has significant meaning to you
7 Day Candle(s) (color determined by the need of the individual)
Anointing Oil (High Altar, Attraction or Patchouli are recommended)
Incense (optional – to match the Anointing Oil)
Sacred Space or Altar

A necklace is best as once it's charged and put on, it exudes its power right in front of the person who needs to see you differently. A ring can also work, or earrings, but the real power is going to be the visibility of a necklace. The necklace should fall midpoint between the throat and heart chakras for best affect,

Determine the color of the 7 Day candle (or candles, if you choose to use more than one), the Anointing Oil and the Incense by referring to the Candle Burning Instructions on my website. Sacred Space or the Altar is where the candles can be left to do their work when needed and the necklace can be left with the candles to be recharged after every use. Meaning, once this space is set up, it is left undisturbed unless used for charging the spell.

Timing for Women

Start this spell the first half hour after dawn on a Friday
(at 35 minutes after the hour, i.e. 5:35 or 6:35)
Between a New Moon and a Full Moon.

Timing for Men

Start this spell the first half hour after dawn on a Tuesday
(at 35 minutes after the hour, i.e. 5:35 or 6:35)
Between a New Moon and a Full Moon

The time between the bottom of the hour and the top (say between 5:30 and 6) is powerful for accomplishing things you wish to bring to yourself. But always start at the 35 minute mark rather than on the exact half hour mark.

Preparation

Make sure the Sacred Space/Altar is cleansed and prepared. Physically clean the space (even if it's the top of a bureau) then smudge with sage.

Rinse the necklace and candles in cold water and let them air dry. While they are drying, take a shower or ritual bath to cleanse your aura. Dress in clean clothes that make you feel powerful and attractive.

The Spell

Do whatever energy raising method you prefer. Shaking the hands for up to 2 minutes enlivens the creative and psychic centers of the brain. Breathing in the power of the air/energy around you works too. Clapping your hands and rubbing them together for up to 2 minutes also works.

Hold the cleansed candle(s) – one at a time if using more than one – between your energized palms and move your personal energy down your arms, through the chakras in your palms into the candle(s). Ask it to work the magic of creating an aura of magnetized desirability around you. Feel your core power fill the candle. Do this with each candle you work with. Do this with the necklace you've chosen. Thank them for doing work on your behalf after each charging.

If you are using oil to dress and bless the items, once the items are charged, put a little oil on both palms and coat the oil over the candle(s) and necklace. It doesn't have to be a lot, but it needs to cover the glass of the candle(s) and the pendant part of the necklace.

Place the candle(s) on the altar. If you are using incense, light the incense and direct the smoke of it around the candle(s) then put it aside to continue smoking. Light the candle(s). Place the necklace before the candle(s).

Hold your hands up to face the candle(s) and necklace and call on all your powers of concentration to see, feel, hear, smell and know yourself in your own power. This is not a power over everything else, but of your true strength. Feel that power moving through your palms and into the items, specifically into the necklace.

With palms still exuding energy, picture yourself looking the best you can possibly look. Speaking in your clearest, most charming, convincing and successful voice. Imagine who you're meeting with smells your energy and it intoxicates them. Imagine yourself listening while feeling that others are transfixed on you while they speak and anticipate what you say next.

Feel the power emanating from the the gem in the necklace. Imagine yourself with others where all you have to do is seemingly carelessly play with the necklace to put yourself and your words and intentions front and center. See things going your way without making any effort. Imagine you putting off an aura of beauty and power, inner strength, charm and desirability without any effort.

Do this imagining with as much power and sexuality as you can for as long as you can (yes, sexuality, even if the spell is to bet you a better outcome in a business meeting). The more clarity you put into it, the better it works.

When you are done, place your palms together and ground your energy, sending the leftover into the Earth for her to do with as she wills.

Let the candle(s) burn for six hours then extinguish them by smothering them. Avoid blowing them out with your breath as that's disrespectful. Leave the necklace on the altar with the candle(s) until you need to use it. Use it carefully.

If you do this spell on the Friday or Tuesday as suggested but the first time you need it is days later, recharge the necklace by lighting the candle(s) again and doing a shorter version of the above either the night before or the morning of. The candle(s) need burn only an hour when you recharge, unless after using the necklace you feel it has been drained. Then let the candle(s) charge it for a full six hours.

Once this is started on a Friday or a Tuesday, it can be continued on any day. You don't have to wait until another Friday or Tuesday to recharge. But always start the recharging at 35 minutes after the hour.

When you are done with the need for the glamour, let the candle(s) burn all the way down and rinse the necklace in cold water before returning it to normal service. Wrap the glass of the candle(s) in newspaper and bury them, or dispose of them in the garbage. Smudge the Sacred Space/Altar to clear it for its next use.

Good luck.
